Professors Expect To Reach Their Objective By Tonight

With the closing date of the appeal for the Federated Charities set for tonight, latest returns from the McGill student division shows that barely half of the objective has been reached. The latest figures show that so far the total of $909.95 has been reached. According to Professor Simpson, 72 per cent of the objective in the Professors' Section has been reached, $14,405.00 having been collected. It is estimated that this total will be increased to $18,500, before this evening.

Class collectors are urged to make every effort to approach each member in the class. Whether their efforts are met with success or not, it is imperative, at least, that a most intensive canvass be made. As yet no results whatsoever have been received from the Library School, Graduate School and Dentistry.

Final Appeal

John Hutchins, president of the Students' Section of the Federated Charities, issued the following statement: "The objective of the Student Campaign is far behind its goal, which it was hoped would be reached by tonight. As chairman of the Student Campaign at McGill I make this final appeal to all who have not made their little sacrifice.

"A university student by reason of his mental standard and ideals of logic and reason, does not need, but rather would resent a highfrown and wordy exhortation. In the name of those who look for aid I say, 'Please give!'

Afterwards, tentative plans were made for holding a second informal dance sometime towards the end of the month. In keeping with the University's policy of economy in social functions, the price will be again 75 cents per couple for members, and $1.00 per couple for the guest members. Attempt At Transmutation
By Early Scientists
Described

"If the western alchemists owe their ideas to China, then modern chemistry, specialized as it is, owes a debt of gratitude to the old Chinese alchemists," stated Dr. W. H. Barnes, speaking on the subject: "Chinese Alchemy," before the Chemical Society, on Friday afternoon, at the main lecture theatre in the MacDonald Chemistry Building.

His address was based on the hypothesis set forward by O. S. Johnson, in his book "A Study of Chinese Alchemy," in which he suggests that Western alchemy derived its ideas from the Chinese. The earliest Chinese reference to transmutation dates from the second century B. C., and first definite trade routes with the Near East were established about 100 A. D.; and as the first reference to alchemy in the West was to be found in a decree of Diocletian in 290 A. D., this fact therefore becomes quite significant.

Results from Taoism

Chinese alchemy, it seems, developed from Taoism, a philosophy which taught that Tao was the central feature of the universe, "an eternal principle which produces and maintains all creation, and to which all creation returns." It was believed, that he who attained Tao, would gain immortality.

Associated with this was the idea that everything was considered to partake of two principles, "Yin" (Shade), i. e., the bodily element, and "Yang" (Light), or the soul. The main aim of these early alchemists was to transform Yin to Yang, and thus gain immortality.

S. C. M. Entertained Graduate Members

Three Speakers Addressed
Gathering Yesterday

At 4:30 on Sunday afternoon the Student Christian Movement held a tea in Strathcona Hall for the graduate members of the society. Formerly when the members graduated they were no longer held to be official members, but this ruling has of late been changed, the result being this week-end's conference.

Mr. Fred Scott of Stanstead College spoke on the relations between education and religion, as well as the graduates' responsibility in this field. Education should provide the proper food for mental life and thought.

"Social work, the process of readjusting the individual to his environment is a thing in which the graduates can help a great deal," stated Miss Jean Graham. The problem is more of a moral one than it is an economic one, and requires a scientific attitude as well as a personal relation between the client and social worker.

Prof. Coote then spoke on the Church itself and its relation to the graduates. He believed that it had a vast influence in modern social life.

Special Student Rate Of

Depression Caused By Market System

W. W. Goforth States That Canada Has Shown Little
Skill

A break-down in the system of marketing brought about the economic depression and the collapse was due to the misinterpretation of the art, stated W. W. Goforth, M.A., Canadian market specialist and former McGill University professor before the members of the Canadian Society of Cost Accountants and Industrial Engineers Montreal Chapter in the Arts Building Friday night. The subject was "The Organization of Market Research."

Failure to keep pace with the rapid changes in the art of marketing since the war has resulted in the present crisis affirmed the speaker. Mr. Goforth divided his subject into three sections: first its definition and scope; second, types of market research and third, the elements of the organization itself.

Marketing is not bargaining, rather it is the art of securing mutually satisfactory and permanent exchange of goods. Market research as a subsidiary of the art itself. Despite the work of the engineer and the accountant in the field of marketing, the present depression has been created because of the absence of a qualified class having knowledge along these lines.

R. S. Sproule Winner in Rifle Club Spoon Contest

The fine weather of yesterday afternoon greatly enhanced the enjoyment of the spoon match held at Pointe aux Trembles by the Rifle Club. Competition was keen but R. S. Sproule proved himself the victor.

The intercollegiate match, scheduled to take place this week-end, has been postponed until November 20th, owing to the large number expected to be out of town for Armistice.

Original Exhibition Given At Stadium By College Bands

THE traditional rivalry between McGill and Varsity went one step further at the game on Saturday, when the bands representing the two universities staged a contest of their own at half time. Both groups had marched to the game together, heading the parade of rooters, and afforded a most colorful display as they marched around the field prior to the beginning of the game.

As the football teams wearily trudged off the field at the end of the second quarter, and after they had formed the letters of the two universities, the bands then playing Varsity's marching song, marched towards one another, and came to a stand at the centre of the field, with the Blue and Red mingling in a solid square. This formed a pretty spectacle, symbolizing the clean sportsmanship that has always existed between the two universities, and amply made up for the fact that the auto race did not take place, owing to the extreme muddiness of the track.

MacDonald College Has 25th Birthday

Celebrates Silver
Anniversary Over
The Week-end

GROWTH SUBSTANTIAL

Founded In 1907 By Late
Sir William M. C.
MacDonald

Over the week-end MacDonald College celebrated its 25th anniversary since the opening of its classes. It was in 1907 that Sir William M. C. MacDonald founded the college, and it first admitted students on Nov. 5th of that year. It is interesting to read of this historical event in the report of the university to the Governor-General of Canada for the session 1907-8.

This report in dealing with the newly-opened institution stated that the opening was somewhat delayed due to various hindrances arising from the business of construction and equipment. The work of the college was divided into three schools: a School for Teachers, a School of Agriculture and a School of Household Science.

215 Registered

The report went on to say that the number of students registered was 215, of whom 115 were in the School for Teachers, 62 in the School of Household Science, and 38 in the School for Agriculture. Besides, during the year 44 additional students took short courses in cereal husbandry, horticulture and poultry keeping.

During the first year there were 32 officers of instruction besides four teachers in the Protestant Day School of St. Anne de Bellevue. Practically all the students were in residence. Only four resided with relatives. Tuition was free for Canadian students excepting in the School of Household Science where the fee of $25 per annum was charged. Board and lodging was at the rate of $43.75 per week.

Substantial Growth
From this auspicious beginning MacDonald College has grown substantially. Reports from the college show that at the opening this fall there were enrolled 101 students in agriculture, including 23 graduate students, 223 in the School for Teachers and 98 in Household Science.

Outstanding in the registration this fall was the large number who made application for entrance to the School for Teachers.

Dr. Meyer Speaks To Representatives Of Med Fraternity

THE regional conference of the Phi Delta Epsilon, a national medical fraternity with chapters in Canada and the U. S. A., took place at the Windsor Hotel on Saturday last. Representatives from Dalhousie, Toronto, Syracuse and the University of Vermont were present.

Dr. Meyer was the chief speaker at the main dinner. Several local members of Phi Delta Epsilon, graduates of McGill, took an active part in the program.

University Grads Should Lead Way In Political Reform

REMODELLING SOCIETY

"The Movement For a
Christian Social Order"
Discussed by Dr. Line

"University graduates should lead the way in political reform," said J. S. Woodsworth, M.P., speaking at a supper meeting of the graduate members and friends of the Student Christian Movement held in Strathcona Hall on Saturday, November 5th.

Other speakers of the evening were Dr. Line, who spoke on "The Movement for a Christian Social Order," and Mrs. J. M. C. Duckworth, secretary of the Graduates Co-operative Committee of the Student Christian Movement, who briefly outlined the work of the Committee.

Mr. Woodsworth's Address

The university graduate has a great responsibility as regards Canadian politics. The country, at the present time, is going through a political and economic crisis such as never before. The old political parties, bound by the shackles of tradition, are unable to follow new policies. Thus there is a great need for an independent party which will be able to carry out a new constructive program. Here it is that the responsibility of the graduate lies.

The graduate, as an educated man or woman, owes it to the community to work for the betterment of the country. He or she is better equipped to carry on the work of reform than the person who has not had a college education.

Junior Debaters At First Meeting Today

The Occupation Of Man-
churia By Japan To Be Discussed

The McGill Junior Debating League, which replaces the Freshman-Sophomore Debating League of last year, will hold its first meeting today at 4:00 p.m. sharp, in the Music Room of the McGill Union. The president, John McLeish Arts '35, will occupy the chair. Japan's occupation of Manchuria will be the subject for the afternoon's debate.

The meeting will be opened by an introduction of the resolutions previously discussed by the executive, and their ratification by those members present at the meeting. The vice-president will then be elected; and this, in turn will be followed by the debate.

The subject coming under discussion is Resolved that this House deplores the occupation of Manchuria by Japan." Philip F. Vineberg, Arts '35, will defend the resolution; while John W. Kerr, Arts '35, will form the opposition. Criticisms and helpful hints upon the art of debating will be voiced by Herbert H. Tees, Arts '33, a former vice-president of the old League. The decision will be judged in accordance with the vote of the audience.

Proceeding the debate, the resolution will be thrown open to the House. A general period of discussion follows in which all members are permitted and requested to participate.

It is further requested that First Year members who find that the time of the meeting conflicts with an English 2 Conference arrange to attend this meeting before or after the conference and report the difficulty to the president.

Architects Revel Tonight

Tonight the freshman class of the School of Architecture will tender a banquet to the Sophomore and to the faculty at the German Club. This function has developed into an annual custom, with the first year men treating their second year confreres to a sumptuous repast. At this affair, the spirit of comradeship and conviviality reigns, and ample opportunity is given for the members of the two classes to come together on a friendly basis, and enjoy a most pleasant evening.

Osler Society To Meet

Two papers of historical interest to doctors and medical students will be read at the first meeting of the Osler Society to be held next Tuesday evening in the Vice-Regal suite of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel at 8 o'clock.

The first by J. Hoyle will be "Magicians in Medicine" and the second will be "Chinese Medicine" by R. MacDonald.

Leacock's Humour Main Attraction Of Graduates' Banquet

ABOUT 200 McGill graduates of the years 1926 to 1930 took advantage of the opportunity which offered on Friday night to renew acquaintances and indulge in manifestations of college spirit. The opportunity came in the form of a dinner organized by the Graduates' Society, which took place at the Windsor Hotel.

The guest of honor was Dr. Stephen Leacock, head of the department of Economics and Political Science. As he rose to speak he was welcomed by noisy cheers that were proof of the esteem in which the well-known Canadian humorist is held. Dr. Leacock announced that his formal speech had been stolen by the taxi driver on his way to the hotel. This statement was received amid cheers. His discourse showed the humor and versatility to which all are accustomed.

S. B. Millen, chairman of the evening, presided at the head table at which was seated the class secretaries of the various years.

Followed Through Various Stages

In accordance with annual custom the Daily staff gathered at the Union grillroom on Friday evening, to listen to an address from Walter O'Hearn, of the Montreal Daily Herald, prior to the annual visit to the Gazette's printing plant.

Allan D. Talbot, Editor-in-Chief of the Daily, occupied the chair, and previous to the main item on the program, introduced to the staff the various men who guide the destinies of the paper. The members of the managing board, as well as the night editors, were requested to take a bow.

O'Hearn Introduced

E. H. Crown, news editor, then rose to introduce the speaker. He took the opportunity of delivering a few words of advice to the cub reporters, urging them, above all, to be most accurate in their write-ups. He pointed out that the Daily was sent to 60 universities on the continent, and that it had the reputation of being one of the best college newspapers in North America. It is the duty, he said, of the reporters and editors to maintain this reputation.

Mr. O'Hearn, in his opening remarks, praised the McGill Daily, saying that it held a high position in the field of college journalism. He went on to speak about journalism in general, and pointed out that it was an exciting profession. "There's no coddling of anyone's pet ideas or ambitions in the newspaper business. You have to stand on your own feet," he said. College graduates, he added, find a natural antagonism to their education in the newspaper game, from those men who rose to high positions through natural ability, from the lowly estate of printer's apprentice, or copy boy. Education, however, in the long run he said has its advantages.

Types of Journalism

He went on to say that there are two types of journalism, and that only the extreme of each of these types will succeed. Half measures either way will not suffice. There is the ultra conservative paper, which

(By H. A. DOIG)

Varsity copped the Intercollegiate Football crown on Saturday when a smart blue twelve handed the luckless Red squad an 8-4 defeat on a rain-soaked treacherous gridiron. Nine thousand fans saw the Redmen hold the Varsity team for three quarters of the game but a series of backfield fumbles in the final frame were turned into four singles and despite a desperate last minute rally by the Red team when they gambled on forward passes on almost every play Varsity, led by Warren Stevens, carried off the laurels.

Toronto was given a helping hand by Queen's when the tricolour held the purple of Western to a 4-4 tie and squelched all hopes the other teams had of catching the Blueboys at the head of the pack. Thus Varsity precedes the Western Mustangs to the intercollegiate laurels. Throughout the game the Toronto team relied largely on straight football attempting very few forwards and electing to kick on second and even first downs.

Fumbles Disastrous

McGill suffered a disadvantage in the kicking but resorted more often to the forward pass as a yard gainer. But several disastrous backfield fumbles paved the way for Varsity points which all came via the aerial attack. "Long John" Sinclair's toe accounted for two singles before he was forced to retire with his sore shoulder. Arny and Fenner took up the Blue kicking burden and the latter kicked five rouses before the game was over. The other Varsity point came in a peculiar way when Stevens returned a Toronto punt behind his own line which hit one of the goal posts and rebounded back over the touchline.

Craig got the first Red counter with a rouse. Don Young got the second when he attempted an onside kick and the final two points came as the result of a safety touch. Fenner halted stopped Craig's kick but the ball got away and in a mad scramble he beat Griffiths to the ball as he was dragged down for the safety.

Play Close

The play in the early stages of the game was fairly even but two sides in a row set McGill back twenty. Varsity followed up this break with a completed forward from Sinclair to Wood. An extra kick was made by Sinclair almost saw the latter away for a touch but Don Young made a beautiful tackle to save a difficult situation. Varsity tried a placement which failed but went for a rouse. Riddell made some nice plays through the right side. A fumble nearly spoiled the chances, fortunately it was recovered but the Redmen were hauled back ten yards for offense. There was no more scoring in the first period with both teams relying on straight football.

Sinclair Hurt

Another series of offenses at the start of the second quarter placed the Blue team in a scoring position and Sinclair kicked the second Varsity point. It was a beautiful punt to the deadline. McGill fought back and Sinclair intercepted one of Krukowski's forwards and gained ten yards before he was downed. His ailing arm was hurt in the play and he was forced to retire.

Arny took over the kicking duties and his first boot was blocked by the charging Red line and he was lucky to recover for a slight loss. The Redmen reverted to the forward pass again and a Krukowski to Hammond heave gained 15 yds. It was a nice play. An extension by Craig gained another five and Fenner was downed.

THE traditional rivalry between McGill and Varsity went one step further at the game on Saturday, when the bands representing the two universities staged a contest of their own at half time. Both groups had marched to the game together, heading the parade of rooters, and afforded a most colorful display as they marched around the field prior to the beginning of the game.

As the football teams wearily trudged off the field at the end of the second quarter, and after they had formed the letters of the two universities, the bands then playing Varsity's marching song, marched towards one another, and came to a stand at the centre of the field, with the Blue and Red mingling in a solid square. This formed a pretty spectacle, symbolizing the clean sportsmanship that has always existed between the two universities, and amply made up for the fact that the auto race did not take place, owing to the extreme mudiness of the track.

MacDonald College Has 25th Birthday

Celebrates Silver
Anniversary Over
The Week-end

GROWTH SUBSTANTIAL

Founded In 1907 By Late
Sir William C.
MacDonald

Over the week-end MacDonald College celebrated its 25th anniversary since the opening of its classes. It was in 1907 that Sir William C. MacDonald founded the college, and it first admitted students on Nov. 6th of that year. It is interesting to read of this historical event in the report of the university to the Governor-General of Canada for the session 1907-8.

This report, in dealing with the newly-opened institution, stated that the opening was somewhat delayed due to various hindrances arising from the business of construction and equipment. The work of the college was divided into three schools: a School for Teachers, a School of Agriculture and a School of Household Science.

The report went on to say that the number of students registered was 215, of whom 115 were in the School for Teachers, 62 in the School of Household Science, and 38 in the School for Agriculture. Besides, during the year 44 additional students took short courses in cereal husbandry, horticulture and poultry keeping.

During the first year there were 32 officers of instruction besides four teachers in the Protestant Day School of St. Anne de Bellevue. Practically all the students were in residence. Only four resided with relatives. Tuition was free for Canadian students excepting in the School of Household Science where the fee of $25 per annum was charged. Board and lodging was at the rate of $3.25 per week.

Substantial Growth

From this auspicious beginning MacDonald College has grown substantially. Reports from the college show that at the opening this fall there were enrolled 101 students in agriculture, including 23 graduate students, 223 in the School for Teachers and 98 in Household Science.

Outstanding in the registration this fall was the large number who made application for entrance to the School for Teachers.

Dr. Meyer Speaks To Representatives Of Med Fraternity

THE regional conference of the Phi Delta Epsilon, a national medical fraternity with chapters in Canada and the U.S.A., took place at the Windsor Hotel on Saturday last. Representatives from Dalhousie, Toronto, Syracuse and the University of Vermont were present.

Dr. Meyer was the chief speaker at the main dinner. Several local members of Phi Delta Epsilon, graduates of McGill, took an active part in the program.

University Grads Should Lead Way In Political Reform

REMODELING SOCIETY

"The Movement For a
Christian Social Order"
Discussed by Dr. Line

"University graduates should lead the way in political reform," said J. S. Woodsworth, M. P., speaking at a supper meeting of the graduate members and friends of the Student Christian Movement held in Strathcona Hall on Saturday, November 5th.

Other speakers of the evening were Dr. Line, who spoke on "The Movement for a Christian Social Order," and Mrs. J. M. C. Duckworth, secretary of the Graduates Co-operative Committee of the Student Christian Movement, who briefly outlined the work of the Committee.

Mr. Woodsworth's Address

The university graduate has a great responsibility as regards Canadian politics. The country, at the present time, is going through a political and economic crisis such as never before. The old political parties, bound by the shackles of tradition, are unable to follow new policies. Thus there is a great need for an independent party which will be able to carry out a new constructive program. Here it is that the responsibility of the graduate lies.

The graduate, as an educated man or woman, owes it to the community to work for the betterment of the country. He or she is better equipped to carry on the work of reform than the person who has not had a college education.

Junior Debaters At First Meeting Today

The Occupation Of Man-
churia By Japan To Be Discussed

The McGill Junior Debating League, which replaces the Freshman-Bonhomme Debating League of last year, will hold its first meeting today at 4:00 p.m. sharp, in the Music Room of the McGill Union. The president, John McElish Arts '35, will occupy the chair. Japan's occupation of Manchuria will be the subject for the afternoon's debate.

The meeting will be opened by an introduction of the resolutions previously discussed by the executive, and their ratification by those members present at the meeting. The vice-president will then be elected; and this, in turn will be followed by the debate.

The subject coming under discussion is resolved that this House deplores the occupation of Manchuria by Japan." Philip F. Vineberg, Arts '35, will defend the resolution; while John W. Kerr, Arts '35, will form the opposition. Criticisms and helpful hints upon the art of debating will be given by Herbert H. Tees, Arts '33, a former vice-president of the old League. The decision will be judged in accordance with the vote of the audience.

Proceeding the debate, the resolution will be thrown open to the House. A general period of discussion follows in which all members are permitted and requested to participate.

It is further requested that First Year members who find that the time of the meeting conflicts with an English 2 Conference arrange to attend this meeting before or after the conference and report the difficulty to the president.

Architects Revel Tonight

Tonight the freshman class of the School of Architecture will tender a banquet to the Sophomore and to the faculty at the German Club. This function has developed into an annual custom, with the first year men treating their second year confreres to a sumptuous repast. At this affair, the spirit of comradeship and conviviality reigns, and ample opportunity is given for the members of the two classes to come together on a friendly basis, and enjoy a most pleasant evening.

Osler Society To Meet

Two papers of historical interest to doctors and medical students will be read at the first meeting of the Osler Society to be held next Tuesday evening in the Vice-Regal suite of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel at 8 o'clock.

The first by J. Hoyle will be "Magicians in Medicine" and the second will be "Chinese Medicine" by R. MacDonald.

Leacock's Humour Main Attraction Of Graduates' Banquet

ABOUT 200 McGill graduates of the years 1926 to 1930 took advantage of the opportunity which offered on Friday night to renew acquaintances and indulge in manifestations of college spirit. The opportunity came in the form of a dinner organized by the Graduates' Society, which took place at the Windsor Hotel.

The guest of honor was Dr. Stephen Leacock, head of the department of Economics and Political Science. As he rose to speak he was welcomed by noisy cheers that were proof of the esteem in which the well-known Canadian humorist is held. Dr. Leacock announced that his formal speech had been stolen by the taxi driver on his way to the hotel. This statement was received amid cheers. His discourse showed the humor and versatility to which all are accustomed.

S. B. Millen, chairman of the evening, presided at the head table at which was seated the class secretaries of the various years.

Followed Through Vari-

In accordance with annual custom the Daily staff gathered at the Union grillroom on Friday evening, to listen to an address from Walter O'Hearn, of the Montreal Daily Herald, prior to the annual visit to the Gazette's printing plant.

Allan D. Talbot, Editor-in-Chief of the Daily, occupied the chair, and previous to the main item on the program, introduced to the staff the various men who guide the destinies of the paper. The members of the managing board, as well as the night editors, were requested to take a bow.

O'Hearn Introduced

E. H. Crown, news editor, then rose to introduce the speaker. He took the opportunity of delivering a few words of advice to the cub reporters, urging them, above all, to be most accurate in their write-ups. He pointed out that the Daily was sent to 60 universities on the continent, and that it had the reputation of being one of the best college newspapers in North America. It is the duty, he said, of the reporters and editors to maintain this reputation.

Mr. O'Hearn, in his opening remarks, praised the McGill Daily, saying that it held a high position in the field of college journalism. He went on to speak about journalism in general, and pointed out that it was an exciting profession. "There's no coddling of anyone's pet ideas or ambitions in the newspaper business. You have to stand on your own feet," he said. College graduates, he added, find a natural antagonism to their education in the newspaper game, from those men who rose to high positions through natural ability, from the lowly estate of printer's apprentice, or copy boy. Education, however, in the long run he said has its advantages.

Types of Journalism

He went on to say that there are two types of journalism, and that only the extremes of each of these types will succeed. Half measures either way will not suffice. There is the ultra conservative paper, which

Daily Reporters To Visit Gazette This Wednesday Evening

DAILY reporters who were unable to visit the Gazette Friday night, and who have never visited it before, will be given a further opportunity to do so Wednesday evening.

Those who wish to make this trip (which will begin at approximately 9:30, and last for under an hour) should sign their names on a paper posted for this purpose on the wall of the Daily office. This must be done some time today or tomorrow.

The meeting place for tomorrow's assembly will be announced in Wednesday's issue of the Daily.

(By H. A. DOIG)

Varsity copped the Intercollegiate Football crown on Saturday when a smart blue twelve handed the luckless Red squad an 8-4 defeat on a rain-soaked treacherous gridiron. Nine thousand fans saw the Redmen hold the Varsity team for three quarters of the game but a series of backfield fumbles in the final frame were turned into four singles and despite a desperate last minute rally by the Red team when they gambled on forward passes on almost every play Varsity, led by Warren Stevens, carried off the laurels.

Toronto was given a helping hand by Queen's when the tricolour held the purple of Western to a 4 all tie and squelched all hopes the Bluebirds had of catching the Blueboys at the head of the pack. Thus Varsity succeeds the Western Mustangs to the intercollegiate laurels. Throughout the game the Toronto team relied largely on straight football, attempting very few forwards and electing to kick on second and even first downs.

Fumbles Disastrous

McGill suffered a disadvantage in the kicking but resorted more often to the forward pass as a yard gainer. But several disastrous backfield fumbles paved the way for Varsity points which all came via the aerial attack. "Long John" Sinclair's toe accounted for two singles before he was forced to retire with his sore shoulder. Arny and Fenner took up the Blue kicking burden and the latter kicked five rouges before the game was over. The other Varsity point came in a peculiar way when Stevens returned a Toronto punt behind his own line which hit one of the goal posts and rebounded back over the touchline.

Craig got the first Red counter with a rouge. Don Young got the second when he attempted an inside line and the final two points came as the result of a safety touch. Fenner had stopped Craig's kick but the ball lay away and in a mad scramble he saw Griffiths to the ball as he was dragged down for the safety.

Play Close

The play in the early stages of the game was fairly even but two or three times in a row set McGill back twenty. Varsity followed up this break with a completed forward from Sinclair to Wood. An extension Wood to Sinclair almost saw the latter away for a touch but Don Young made a beautiful tackle to save a difficult situation. Varsity tried a placement which failed but went for a rouge. Riddell made some nice gains through the right side. A fumble nearly spoiled the chances, fortunately it was recovered but the Redmen were hauled back ten yards for offense. There was no more scoring in the first period with both teams relying on straight football.

Sinclair Hurt

Another series of offenses at the start of the second quarter placed the Blue team in a scoring position and Sinclair kicked the second Varsity point. It was a beautiful punt to the deadline. McGill fought back and Sinclair intercepted one of Kruskowski's forwards and gained ten yards before he was downed. His ailing arm was hurt in the play and he was forced to retire.

Arny took over the kicking duties and his first boot was blocked by the charging Red line and he was lucky to recover for a slight loss. The Redmen reverted to the forward pass again and a Kruskowski to Hammond heave gained 18 yds. It was a nice play. An extension by Craig gained another five and Fenner was downed.

Beauty Plus

It is hard to turn idly the pages of a pictorial newspaper without being confronted by the smiling beauty of a "campus queen." They are continually jumping into the public eye. A major activity, it seems, in many American colleges, is the selection of the most beautiful co-ed. And, not content with being chosen, she is promptly advertised far and wide to a public that revels in vicarious thrills.

There is nothing intrinsically wrong in this homage to beauty. It has always been paid, both in word and deed, and always will. But just why the most beautiful girl in attendance at any university should be classed as the campus queen it is difficult to fathom.

The most important person at any place will always be so because of his or her mental attributes, and not for reasons of beauty. But it has seldom occurred to a university to select the most intelligent of its students. The charge of the impossibility of making a true valuation of intelligence should bear little weight. Beauty itself has no absolute standard, and "the most beautiful" will always be a matter of opinion and speculation.

However, it is a world-wide mistake to assign to famous people attributes which they do not possess. Poets are ever considered sound thinkers; orators are held to be good statesmen. So though it is ridiculous, it is not surprising to see the most beautiful girl at a university set forth as the most important thereof.

"A Bloodless War of Peace."

FIVE great enemies of peace inhabit with us—avarice, ambition, envy, anger and pride; if these were abolished, we should infallibly enjoy perpetual peace," wrote Petrarch nearly seven hundred years ago. Despite the vaunted progress of civilization, his words are as true today. At the present time the world is perhaps undergoing the greatest depression it has ever known, and its causes may be traced back to those very things mentioned by him.

On November the 11th, nearly the entire world will momentarily pause to remember their gallant dead. The strongest amongst us would resent the possibility of having to undergo all the rigors and hardships which were brought about by the last war. Yet today we face a situation fully as serious. Someone has said "Peace hath her victories no less renowned than war," and it is in "the bloodless battle of peace" that the coming generation must fight.

At the present time the Federated Charities is fighting one of the most crucial battles in its history. Throughout Montreal, workers are canvassing desperately to raise sufficient funds to enable the Protestant charities to operate during the coming year. Most students and professors at McGill have already given financial aid as far as they could afford to do so. There are, however, many ways in which they will be able to help those less fortunate than themselves during the winter.

So long as society lasts there will be some who are helpless because they are deficient. This class is being better taken care of every year. There are many people who are poor through no fault of their own; unemployment, sickness and the like. Indiscriminate charity and offers of financial aid often embarrass the very people they are designed to help. Offerings should be made not in the name of charity, but as a pleasure and as a duty by those who have much in comparison with those they seek to help.

Too often do we think that after a man has been fed, sheltered and kept warm that we have done all we can for him. We forget that he too must at times, like ourselves, feel depressed and miserable—and probably more often than ourselves. Personal contact of those who are really successful—and we do not mean financially—with the discouraged and hampered would often get a man over the dead center of poverty.

Correspondence

WE should esteem it a courtesy if all who send lengthy letters to us would—if they can—type them before doing so. Easily legible handwriting, alas, seems a rare product of our schools.

A PROPOSAL

Proposed: That a student dramatic tourney be held.

That the plays be one act, chosen by the group to perform it, written by one of its own members or chosen from the available supply.

That the plays be directed, mounted and presented by each group individually.

That in the case of a one-sex group an outside member of the opposite sex be permitted, (though not obligatory.)

That any recognized campus club or society, or any individual year or department or faculty be permitted to present a play.

That some prize or enticement to success be offered, i.e. shield or even special mention, the honour being compared to success gained in athletic prowess.

That the judges be two members of the faculty, and one each from the Player's Club, the Red and White Revue, and the Daily.

COMPETITION among the students of the departments and faculties in the matter of athletics is an accepted procedure, not only at McGill, but at most universities. It allows the few students who take advantage of the opportunity a means of advancing their own bodily physique in a pleasurable manner. The remaining students, however, are shut out; they may look in on the game, but even this may not interest them, though they may be quite as energetic, resourceful, and anxious to accomplish something as their sporting contemporaries.

To help give these young worthies an outlet for their effervescent vitality many means have been devised, which include the usual debating contests and study clubs. Dramatic tourneys are as yet rare, which is a pity, since the varied aspects that enter into play production are so numerous as to enlist the aid of the usually unregarded hobbyists, as well as those who feel anxious to strut a part before the eyes of many.

A dramatic tourney at a university such as McGill would prove of far more interest than one held in an institution having but one general trend of thought and intention. The dramatic results would be not in the realm of fancy or impressionism, but rather in that realistic manner which the students expect their future avocations to resemble, for it is to be imagined and hoped that medical students would choose a vehicle that would portray some aspect of their intended profession (not "Le Cid") that students in Architecture might hunt up a farce such as is enacted daily between clients and their architects, that Law students dramatize one of the many moments of the courts that are of such attraction, that a fraternity attempt to hold up to ridicule the Hollywood version of their activities, that Arts students honouring in economics, or the Economic Club itself, present the weakness of the present banking system in palatable form. In short, that any group with an experience portray the part which most closely follows it. This type-casting is nothing new, but it is rarely applied in the plays that we witness.

The results of such a tourney would not be excellent dramatic fare, but it would make for three or four interesting evenings for the spectators, and about a month of highly interesting activity for those participating. True it is that the Players' Club exists for the very purpose of giving those desirous an opportunity of acting or helping to produce in a play, but this is confined to a comparative few, and moreover, like many of the other clubs of this sort, smacks somewhat of professionalism and a definite training to this end rather than a mere aim at a pleasurable use of one's spare time.

A few difficulties naturally suggest themselves, and they are chiefly concerned with the detail arrangements of such a tourney, should it ever be held. About a dozen participants could be expected, making three or four nights of plays, stretched over two or three weeks, and presented in the Moyses Hall, if arrangements for this could be made, or else in the Union Ballroom, or the R.V.C. assembly hall, or even the Y.M.C.A. auditorium. Finances would be something of a stumbling block, but could be met by imposing a 25 cent admission price, or by imposing a levy upon the participants.

The tourney plays would in the general resemble the workshop plays of the Player's Club, being perhaps even less simple, but of far more interest, to be sure, since they would be differing continually in treatment, as the various groups would present them. The idea is offered, for what it is worth, and discussion of its merits or its acceptance or renunciation a matter for later decision. It would spell an end to "student apathy."

Movie Reviews

The Palace

Bing Crosby, Kate Smith, the Boswell Sisters, the Mills Brothers, Cab Calloway and his band, Burns and Allen, Arthur Tracy, Stuart Erwin, Lella Hyams and a galaxy of other favourite screen and radio stars are all featured in this week's major production, "The Big Broadcast," in the Palace Theatre.

Little should be said about the plot of this picture save that it affords ample opportunity for the above well-known artists to display their wares to the best advantage.

Bing Crosby, who has one of the major roles, is a little camera-shy, but Stuart Erwin gives an admirable presentation of the fluted lover who wins out in the end.

The Capitol

Naive idealism is the watchword at the Capitol this week. In "Washington Merry-Go-Round" Lee Tracy, the descendant of a signer of the Declaration of Independence, comes out of the West to clean up Washington. He avails himself of a half a dozen opportunities to make speeches, (apparently the Americans haven't had any lately) during the course of which the wide-eyed audience hear "sensational exposures" which we are afraid, have been common property only too long.

In addition to making speeches, he also has an uncomfortable habit of getting thrown out of places. He is thrown out of the bonus camp, congress, and his fiancée's home before he finally lands right side up, with the "Invisible ruler of America" where he wants him.

R. A. S.

Loew's Theatre

If you are one of those people who have not soaked in too much of the well known collegiate sophistication and can still enjoy a genuine Frank Merriwell thriller I recommend you to visit Loews this week and take in "The Phantom of Crestwood" which is playing there now.

This picture is the film version of a play which was given over the radio in six or seven instalments and a good deal of the consequent technique has been retained... rapid changes of scene and a good deal of dialogue which is occasionally brilliant but on the whole rather mediocre. The story is unusual and the action, as indicated above, sufficiently thrilling to hold the interest.

Cinema de Paris

A lady by the name of Agatha Christie wrote a detective story which she called "Black Coffee." A French film company made it into a bad detective picture called "La Fille de l'Espionne." The movie has everything in it: Poison, a bearded and amiable villain, the great formula of the famous scientist, fainting ladies with pastis, and one young man like unto a flower of the fields.

All the exciting standbys couldn't rescue the picture from boredom; even the actors (announced as societaires of the Comedie Francaise) took it calmly.

Mickey "the only mouse, as far as we know, to have amused millions" scores again in a little duck-hunting adventure.

Cinema Imperial

When the French decide to produce a comedy, one may expect something delightful. Somehow they manage to insert into these charming farces of theirs a typically Gallic spirit, which Hollywood producers usually smother in a plunge of slapstick. "Ma Femme, Homme d'Affaires" at the Imperial this week is an excellent example of the best in the satirical and witty vein of French comedy. An excellent cast which includes Emmy Glynn, Robert-Arnoux, Alfred Pasquali and William Huguette, and a few really funny incidents, combine with clever direction to keep the audience continually chuckling.

The story is simple enough, and as the title suggests is concerned with the successful attempt of a wife to change her husband from a mediocre bank clerk to a director of the Banque Internationale. Judicious distribution of roles and forceful acting are not by any means the least that the picture offers.

College Comment

Don't flatter yourself that you have evolved anything unique or original in thinking that your own particular job is not only harder work, but duller and less interesting than the vocation of your neighbor.

While you are thinking that about his job, he is probably thinking the same thing about yours—and the man farther down the street would cheerfully swap his job for either yours or your neighbor's.

It seems to be a human trait to conclude that the other fellow has a snap compared with the work you do. Every man's vocation falls on him at times. He chafes and rebels against the daily grind, the same today as yesterday, with no promise of variety tomorrow.

He says there is no romance in scrambling out early, working eight or nine hours, coming home and going to bed only to repeat the performance daily six times per week.

Yet suppose you were to suddenly lose that job. Suppose the boss should give you the boot. Then you would awake to the fact that your job is your best friend in the world.

Someone has said, "Blessed be drudgery." Those words bristle with truth. Occupation is the key to happiness. Be a friend of your job. Go to it every day with gladness. Work at it with a will and it will become a pleasure instead of a duty. Your job is what you make it.

Suitable Clothes

Editor,
McGill Daily.

Sir:—

Your editorial entitled, "Silk Hats Etc.," amazed us.

We cannot understand why you rail against the clean and pleasant habit of changing your clothes when going out in the evening. If you prefer to wear clothes which are soiled by the day's work, we deplore it but fear we cannot alter your habits. However, if you do change, why not change into evening clothes, if you have them?

They are cool and comfortable, and although it may not have occurred to you, it is quite possible that the silk-hatted theatregoers, against whom you seem to bear considerable malice, were proposing to dance and sup after "feasting intellectually."

Has it not also occurred to you that your companion (Heaven help her!) may prefer to see you and herself suitably clad.

Yours,

TWO INTELLIGENT FEATHERS.

Economy Dances

Editor,
McGill Daily.

Dear Sir:—

I beg leave to enter a plea for the most sensible of student activities, namely, economy dances. It is a shame that we should stay home nights for the simple reason that we cannot agree to hide formality and step out and enjoy a good cheap dance.

Some seem to think that it is beneath the dignity of McGill to stage dances of this type. If this opinion is not prevalent among the students why is it that the various executives cannot see fit to meet the popular demand.

No one will deny that the economy dances put on last year were a success and yet again there is great hesitancy about carrying on the practice again this year. In one of your editorials last year, if I remember rightly, you put in a plea for more economy dances and expressed the hope that they would last as long as the depression did. Are we to assume then that the depression has won the contest. Certainly the depression is still here but where are the dances; under the table.

I thank you for your valuable space and trust that you will put in a plea for more economy dances at McGill. Let's adapt ourselves.

Chemistry Indebted To Chinese Alchemy

Immortality, which according to their concepts was perpetual life.

Two Phases

This first phase of Chinese alchemy, was interested in the prolongation of life, and in pursuit of this aim, were two schools of thought. The first, or Inner School, thought that immortality could be attained inwardly, by meditation, proper breathing, swallowing one's saliva and other such means. The other school thought that perpetual life could be attained by special diet of certain foods thought to contain vital elements.

The transmutation into gold from baser metals formed the objective of the alchemists of the second phase. Many recipes were tried, many experiments with various metals were made. The most important metal used, it seems, was cinnabar (mercury), which is significant, considering the importance of that very metal to the alchemists of the middle ages.

Different Aims

The chief aim of the Chinese alchemists, however, was the quest for immortality. The search for unlimited gold through transmutation was pursued because it was believed that gold dishes and utensils would purify their food, thus making possible the attainment of their idea. This may be contrasted with the greedy search of the alchemists of the middle ages, who were interested in the gaining of unlimited wealth.

cation. They can think, speak and write well, and it is up to them to lead the way.

The next speaker, Dr. Line, discussed the "Movement for a Christian Social Order." In regard to the social and economic forces of the community the Church had to be stirred up. The Movement is undertaking the remodeling of the pattern of society with a view to kindling and stimulating interest in the Church. This interest may be stimulated by study groups, organization of branches and weekly meetings. The aim of the movement also is to further the work of Christian Social education by adhering to Christian methods of propaganda.

The function of the Graduate's Co-operative Committee was briefly outlined by Mrs. Duckworth. The work of the Committee is to help graduates to get into the life of the community in a real constructive and valuable way, and to get funds for the Student Christian Movement. The meeting adjourned at 8.15 for general discussion.

Meeting League For Social Reconstruction

The Montreal Branch of the League for Social Reconstruction is holding a meeting this evening at the Church of the Messiah, at 8 p.m. The speakers will be Dr. Harry Ward of the Union Theological Seminary of New York, and J. S. Woodworth. Their respective subjects will be the Principles of a New Social Order, and Can Political Action Save Us.

Sociological Club To Meet

The Sociological Society will meet Wednesday night at 8:00 p.m. in Strathcona Hall. The speaker for the evening will be Dr. E. O. Hughes of the Department of Sociology. The lecturer was at the University of Cologne last year and has studied the social movements in Germany while travelling around. His subject will be the "Youth in Germany."

C. F. Denton To Address Spanish Club Tonight

An illustrated lecture dealing with the northeastern district of Spain, particularly with the Pyrenees will be delivered at the first meeting of the Spanish Club, to be held tonight at 8.15 at the Grill Room of the Union, by Mr. C. F. Denton. Mr. Denton was a resident of this part of Spain for many years, and will consequently be speaking from intimate experience. All students interested in Spain and the Spanish language are invited to attend.

RED SOCCERMEN DEFEAT CADETS AT KINGSTON BY 7-1

Nolan Gets Hat-Trick; Toronto Won Only By 2-0

(By S. L. J.)
KINGSTON, Ont., Nov. 5.—Playing their last intercollegiate soccer game of the year, Coach Hay Finlay's eleven amassed a total of seven goals against the Gentlemen's Cadets of R. M. C., in a game played here this morning on a pitch damp and slippery from a night of unrelenting rain. The Cadets, as expected, were stronger defensively than they were on the attack, many potential goals being saved by the clever work of goaler Stevens and the two full-backs, McKay and Darwin.

Hay Finlay

As usual, the Redmen opened cautiously, attempting to steady their footing on the slippery pitch. The Cadets made full use of McGill's temporary inefficiency, the whole forward line swinging down the field to score a pretty goal by Ballard within a few minutes after the kick-off. Ross dove for the ball, but Ballard's shot was out of his reach and put R. M. C. one up.

Repetition of Last Year

As this seemed to the Redmen a repetition of last season's McGill-R. M. C. game, when the latter scored first in an identical manner, but were unable to cope with the Red team, once it had found its bearings, McGill were not worried by this setback. On the contrary, it seemed to be the required impetus, for a few minutes later, Nolan connected for the first Red goal, on a well-placed corner by Crabtree.

This tied the count, but not for any length of time. Stevens in the R. M. C. goal was kept constantly on his toes, saving all sorts of shots from everyone of the forwards. Cooper was through on one occasion, but Stevens again got to the ball and punched it out. Nolan, however, proved to be Johnny-on-the-spot, and banged the ball home for the second McGill goal.

Innes Scores

The next goal came from the toe of Innes of Macdonald College, who was playing a nice game at inside-left—as, too, were the other two Aggies, Flood at right-half, and Cooper at centre-forward. Crabtree had received a pass from Flood, fooled his man neatly, and travelled down the wing at a 10-second clip. His shot, however, hit the upright near the ground, and bounded out at an angle toward Innes's position. The latter made no mistake about his try, the ball going far out of Steven's reach.

Cooper's goal was perhaps the prettiest of the game, as it was the result of clever dribbling and individual effort. He seemed several times about to lose the ball, on being tackled by one or more of the Cadets, but held on persistently until he had manoeuvred into position. Stevens was far from ready for the shot, as he had confidently expected the ball to be cleared. Cooper's shots from within the 18-yard line are notoriously unstoppable, and this effort was no exception. This brought the score up to 4-1 in favor of the Redmen, and remained so when the teams changed ends at half-time.

Nolan Gets Third

Johnny Nolan—who was McGill's biggest goal-getter this year—sent his third goal home soon after the commencement of the second half. The forwards were pressing hard, and the shot gave the R. M. C. goalie little chance. In spite of the goals that had got past him, Stevens put up a fine performance, saving many shots that a poorer goalkeeper might have permitted to pass. Before the half ended, Crabtree lived up to his reputation of having scored at least one goal for each intercollegiate match, and sent a fine shot into the net from a sharp angle. Cooper made it 7-1, when he scored a few minutes before the whistle went, on a high shot into the top-right corner of the net.

The teams lined up as follows:
McGill—Ross, Reece, Harkness, Minnion, Owen, Flood, Crabtree, Nolan, Cooper, Innes, Carter, Hemans, Jamieson.
R. M. C.—Stevens, McKay, Darwin, Twigg, Millar, Leggat, McLaughlin, Ross, Ballard, Laidlaw, Robertson, Drum.

Referee—Lockwood, Kingston.

Redmen Capture Harrier Crown And Retain Rugger Championship

Four McGill Men Among First Six In — Goode Leads Pack — Time Excellent Under Pivalling Conditions — English Rugby Team Overwhelms Varsity — Round Score 39-0 — Captain Butterfield Converts Five Out of Six Tries — McClatchie Best For Toronto.

Queen's May Enter

ON Saturday afternoon, on the Lower Campus, McGill followed up their victory last week at Toronto by winning the second of the games in the Intercollegiate Championship by a score of twenty-eight to nil; and they are now champions for the sixth time, having won both this year's matches without the loss of a point.

Redmen Superior

Throughout the game the home side showed their definite superiority in all departments, and though Varsity made several attempts to break through their defence, they never seriously endangered the McGill line. Though the winning pack played a fine game, they were not quite as much in the ascendency over the opponents as the three, who outpaced and outplayed Varsity from the start.

McGill opened the game in fine style with a neat try by Grimes-Graeme, after Rabnett, at scrum-half, had actuated a blind-side movement near the Toronto line; and Butterfield, whose place kicking was a feature of the game, converted the try. After a few minutes further pressing by McGill, a three-quarter movement in which Wilson cut through very effectively, sent in Rice for the second try, which was again majorised by Butterfield, and gave the home forwards the chance to settle down during the play which followed before McGill scored their third try late in the half. Toronto were getting very little of the ball due to Maycock's hooking, and their three found it difficult to hold a line which was both more thrusting and faster than themselves. The McGill side were playing neat football, and found Davis and Anderson most useful in the line-outs.

Grimes-Graeme Stars

Grimes-Graeme, who was being well-fed by Thomson, and playing an excellent attacking game, eventually scored again for McGill, after a strong run on the wing; and Butterfield, who was having a day out, converted his third try.

The game continued with the home fifteen constantly pressing, and Rabnett, Grimes-Graeme, and Wilson playing excellently among the backs, while Wootton, at fly-half, was using the kick-ahead with admirable effect. Of the forwards, Butterfield, Davis, and Dunsinuir were constantly prominent, and were doing some fine work in the loose.

Three more tries were added by Butterfield, who went over after a loose scramble on the Toronto line; Rabnett from a break-through by Wootton; and Wilson, who scored the last and only unconverted try. The final whistle blew with McGill far superior to their opponents, and the score at twenty-eight nil. The best man on the Toronto team was McClatchie, the scrum-half, who was ready to take advantage of any slowness on the part of Rabnett, and did some useful spilling which was in a large measure responsible for the checks which McGill did receive.

In the evening after the game, the two teams were given dinner in the Union Grill, and speeches were made by the captains, Butterfield and Telford. The Varsity coach, Mr. Boles, also attended, but was not called upon to speak. An interesting point in Telford's speech was his reference to the probable entry of Queen's University into next year's competition. English Rugby has received a considerable impetus at this University through the recent advent of a large number of students from the other side, and they contemplate opening a Rugby Club there to play McGill and Toronto in a triangular League.

The teams:
McGill—Ross, Reece, Harkness, Minnion, Owen, Flood, Crabtree, Nolan, Cooper, Innes, Carter, Hemans, Jamieson.
Varsity—Wakefield, full back; Harcourt, three quarter; MacLeod, three quarter; Wilson, three quarter; Losier, three quarter; Archibald, three quarter; Graeme, three quarter; Holmsted, three quarter; flying half; Lawson, three quarter; Rabnett, three quarter; McClatchie, three quarter; forward; Trites, forward; Maycock, forward; Caverhill, forward; Williams, forward; Morley, forward; Hope, forward; Hillard, forward; Dunsinuir, forward; Wilson, forward; Anderson, forward; Williams, forward; Davis, forward; Telford, forward; Butterfield (Capt.), forward; Magner, forward.

SENIOR HOCKEY

The senior team will practise this afternoon at the Forum between 5 and 6. A practice with the Orchestra will be held on Wednesday night, and a full attendance is expected. A rehearsal

Last Won In 1919

KINGSTON, Ont., Nov. 5.—After a quest of 13 long years, McGill at last succeeded in gaining undisputed possession of the harrier title, when its five-man team took 1st, 2nd, 5th, and 6th places in the intercollegiate race held this morning over the difficult R.M.C. course. Besides McGill, three other colleges were represented, Varsity, R.M.C., and O.A.C. entering strong teams for the event. Queen's, a former participant, was unable to muster a team.

The Last Year

Indications that McGill was on the way to a long-delayed harrier championship existed even last year, when a team composed of Goode, Sampson, Whitcombe, Ball, and Rodgers succeeded in tying the score marked up by Varsity on the Toronto course. On that occasion, Jeff Goode came first and established a new record for the course. McGill's team this year was even stronger, as every member on the squad had made his mark in long-distance running in various sections of the globe. The team, composed of Goode, Frankton, Jamieson, and Stote, is beyond doubt the strongest McGill has ever fielded, and has—individually and collectively—lived up ably to its reputation.

Jeff Goode once again led the runners home, closely followed by his teammate Jamieson. Gilbert and Kibblewhite captured third and fourth places for Varsity, the latter finishing but a bare twenty yards in front of Frankton, whose final spurt was of sufficient strength but appeared to have been started too late. Stote followed close on Frankton's heels, to give McGill four of the first six places, and a low team aggregate of 14 points. Varsity came next with 26, and O.A.C. brought up the rear with 54—five points behind R.M.C.

Modified Course

This year's R.M.C. course is one that has been but lately laid out, and is in the vicinity of 5.7 miles. For this distance, Goode's winning time of 31 minutes, 30 and 3-5 seconds is remarkably good, in view, particularly, of the adverse weather conditions at the time of the race. The course had its beginning at the R.M.C. soccer field, where, at the time, another McGill team was engaged in a game with the Cadets, and after rounding the track, left the grounds through the rear gate. From there it led to the vicinity of Fort Henry, across Barfield Common to the rifle ranges, past the water-pump, and finally down the main road leading to R.M.C. The score of runners passed through the Memorial Arch of the college and finished the run at the entrance of the gymnasium.

For the first mile or thereabouts, Kibblewhite led the pack with his mate Gilbert in second place. At that point Goode passed both Varsity men, to take the lead which he held until the end. Stote and Jamieson ran neck-and-neck with Kibblewhite and Thompson for almost three miles. At the water-jump the two Blue runners forged ahead, but Jamieson was able to pass both, to take a brilliant second place from Kibblewhite, former Canadian Olympic representative.

Fight For Positions

The last mile saw McGill and Varsity wage a bitter battle for qualifying positions. Stote and Frankton had both passed Thompson, who had to be content with seventh place; now the two McGill men fought tooth and nail to pass Gilbert and Kibblewhite and thus make it an overwhelming victory for the Red team. The Varsity runners, however, held on doggedly to their positions. Gilbert, in an effort to catch Goode and Jamieson passed Kibblewhite and took third place for Toronto. Frankton put on a final spurt and almost caught up with the other Varsity man. He ran the final 100 yards of the race like a quarter-mile, but Kibblewhite was just beyond his reach. Stote followed soon after, leading Thompson of Toronto and Wilson of R.M.C.

The teams were:
McGill—Goode, Frankton, Stote, Jamieson and O. Peck.
Varsity — Kibblewhite, Gilbert, Thompson, McLennan and Kerracher.
O.A.C.—McCarthy, Buckner, Powell, Riv and Fuller.
R.M.C. — Wisdom, Deblois, Martin, Wickson and Cooper.

RED POLOISTS IN DOUBLE BILL WITH M.A.A.A. NATATORS

Seniors Still Seek First Victory; Cap'n. Shaw Out

STRONG opposition features the program of McGill's senior and junior water polo squads for tonight, when they face the M. A. A. A. Red teams in a league doubleheader. The games take place at the M. A. A. A. pool on Peel Street, and although not McGill home games, no admission charge will be made to any wishing to view the tilts. The first game starts at 8.30 p.m.

With the determination to turn in their first victory, the McGill seniors promise a tough fight against the Peel Street aggregation. The M.A.A.A. squad, Dominion champs of 1930, have retained most of their original material of the past few years, on this season's squad, and have managed a draw with the Columbus poloists, last year's titleholders, as well as with the Y. M. H. A., this season's league leaders. The Redmen, on the other hand, have been improving rapidly, as evidenced by their close game with the "Y" last Thursday, and a ding-dong battle is expected tonight.

Bob Shaw Out

The senior line-up remains practically unchanged for tonight's affair. Only Captain Bob Shaw will be out of play due to an injury suffered in Thursday's game. A member of the Y. M. H. A. team ripped his eyelid accidentally, necessitating several stitches. French and McLean will be up on the forward line as usual, with Stein centre and Shragovitch, Cross and Shapiro taking care of the defensive positions. Wayland in goal completes the line-up.

The Red Juniors face their most formidable opposition of the season in the M. A. A. A. Red team. This latter team seems to specialize in amassing a great number of goals against their opponents, and have scored as many as 16 in one game. Up to date they share honors with the "Y" juniors in being the only undefeated team in the Junior League. Last season the McGill seconds lost out to them twice, by scores of 12-1 and 5-1. However, the Redmen have succeeded in turning in victories in their last two games, and will do their utmost to achieve another tonight.

The following men should be at the M. A. A. A. tank no later than 8.15 tonight.

Seniors: Wayland, Shragovitch, Cross, Shapiro, Stein, French, McLean.
Juniors: Tessier, Worrall, Lyman, Silverstone, Percy, Smythe, MacLure, Duska.

Local Journalists At Reporters' Meeting

"A good newspaperman," said Mr. O'Hearn, "is everybody's equal, and nobody's superior." He mixes in all spheres, and is received in every circle. The life of the average reporter, however, is not one of wealth and opulence. Some of the best men in the field have lived and died paupers. The reporter has a code of his own, and lives up to it. "Don't for God's sake refer to the newspaper racket. It's a game, not a racket." After the conclusion of this address, thirty members of the staff (all that could be accommodated) left to visit the Gazette. The rest will have this opportunity next Wednesday. At the Gazette the reporters were taken over the entire plant and shown how a modern newspaper is printed from start to finish. First they were taken through the editorial offices where they saw the copy being prepared. From there they were taken to the linotype machines, where the copy is set up, and the galleys made. They were then shown how the slugs were cast, fitted to the press, the paper fed to the rotary printing machine, and finally the completed newspapers issuing from the feed and being mailed to the subscribers.

Hammond Roused

Another fumble on the backfield stopped the goalward march of the Redmen and as a result Hammond was downed far behind his own line. Another Red pass went into the hands of the Blueboys and Stevens attempted to return Fenner's kick with the result already mentioned. It was hard luck for the Redmen.

Half-time whistle saw the Toronto boys leading by 4 to 1. Hard luck was the fate of the Redmen all the way through. The ball was heavy and water-soaked and both the teams played for the breaks.

Seen From The Press-Box

By H. A. D.

IN TWO seasons of Canadian football Warren Stevens has been connected with two championship teams. Last year it will be remembered that the Varsity coach was instrumental in leading the Winged Wheelers to their first Dominion Championship in many years. Saturday he saw his cohorts capture the Intercollegiate crown on the same field where he made Canadian football history with the forward pass last year.

Although the weatherman re-lented long enough Saturday to give the fans a break he certainly made things far from easy for the players. The rain in the morning made the field a sea of mud and the players' numbers and faces soon became unrecognizable. When "Wally" Markham got into action late in the battle, his bright clean uniform was quite a contrast to the begrimed figures already on the field.

The half-time entertainment by the two bands was one of the best we have ever seen at the Stadium. The boys went through their manoeuvres without a hitch. The contrast between the blue and the red in the massed formation was excellent, as was the playing.

President Cody and Principal Currie of the respective universities were both on hand to cheer along the boys. Canon Cody said a few words to the radio audience at half-time and was well pleased with the showing of the Blue team. "Baldy" McQueen of the Toronto "Mail and Empire" was also on hand. He is a great supporter of the Toronto boys and told the radio audience that he was sure they were going to take the crown. He was right at that.

Evidently all the McGill fans are not supporters of the Montreal Footnant, was giving consistently good performances in rehearsal, and should be able to carry the difficult work of the part with conviction. The other characters were well-cast, and with some final polish, should be quite up to the standard demanded by the club. The technical side of the work was well on time and ready to take its part in the final scenes of the past weeks' activities.

Fraser Macquodale accentuated the need for students to secure their tickets early, as, considering the short time before the first night of the play, the demand for seats would be heavy. Ralph Linton and Dean Cornell who are responsible for this side of the work, are fully prepared to cope with the demand. As a further inducement to the public to attend the performance the Executive are making arrangements with Bill Sellar to secure a broadcast from CFCF, and this will in all probability be effected on Tuesday evening.

Patrons And Patronesses

The Patrons and Patronesses for "Escape" have now been announced and will be headed by Sir Arthur and Lady Currie with a list that contains Dean and Mrs. MacKay, Dr. and Mrs. Cyrus Macmillan, Colonel and Mrs. Bovey, and Dr. and Mrs. Woodhead. Dr. Woodhead, it will be remembered was last year Honorary President of the club, a position that has been taken this year by Professor MacDermott.

Talks Over Radio Planned

plans for this week's radio broadcast. Last Saturday night Dr. A. S. Lamb, director of physical education, spoke on "Physical Education and the Welfare of the Student." Tonight, Dr. John F. McIntosh, graduate in medicine, will speak from 8:00 to 8:15 on "A Description of a Visit to Mongolia." Dr. McIntosh is at present a member of the staff of the Union Medical College, Peking, China. Then on Friday night, Sir Arthur Currie, principal, will give an Armistice address from 10:00 to 10:15. All programs will be over Station CKAC.

lbal Club for when the score was announced from Toronto no one seemed to be very much put out about it. Montreal evidently feels Stevens' loss keenly and after the game several McGill fans were also wishing that he had not been persuaded to go to the Queen City.

The Red supporters were determined that Toronto would not steal a march on them as the Tricolor did last week for they lined up around the goal posts. Evidently the Toronto supporters had decided that they had taken quite enough during the afternoon and did not molest the stripped poles. It was a jubilant gang that took the train for Toronto at midnight Saturday.

The race scheduled for half-time did not come off due to the poor condition of the track. The spectators missed a thrill for the baby cars were kicking up plenty of clinders in practice during the week. It would have been just too bad for those in the front rows if the sponsors of the race had decided to hold it anyway.
